Investment strategy

The BFI Systematic Conservative is a mixed fund with a global focus. The investment objective is to achieve the greatest possible participation in the upward movements of the financial markets for the targeted risk profile, while at the same time reducing losses in volatile market phases. Tactical signals are used with the aim of maximising the risk-adjusted return over the long term. The fund invests in liquid instruments, in order to allow a rapid intervention to limit losses in the event of market turbulence. The sub-fund may also invest in money market funds. In order to achieve the investment objective, the equity allocation may vary very flexibly between 0 per cent and 100 per cent depending on the volatility, with a long-term average equity allocation of 30 per cent. The sub-fund has a moderate risk profile.

Definitions

Maximum drawdown: Risk indicator reflecting the maximum loss an investor could have suffered with a certain investment to date. It measures the greatest loss from a previous peak of the equity curve to the lowest subsequent trough.

Volatility: Common risk indicator reflecting the degree of variation of the return delivered by a certain investment. It measures how far that return can deviate from its mean value, both positively and negatively.

Sharpe ratio: Indicator of risk-adjusted return, reflecting the profitability of an investment relative to its volatility. An investment with a higher Sharpe ratio will deliver a higher return per unit of risk.
